

ALTEN strengthens its collaboration with Naval Group by opening a new hub in Rennes, France

Press Release
Rennes - January 21, 2025

ALTEN is proud to announce the inauguration of its new site in Rennes, marking an important step in the strengthening of its strategic partnership with Naval Group. This secure, outsourced site, located in the heart of the dynamic Brittany region, symbolises the commitment of the two companies to work closely together to meet the growing needs in engineering, technological innovation and information systems.

A new strategic site for naval innovation

Located in the Rennes area, renowned for its economic and technological dynamism, this new site is ideally situated to serve all Naval Group sites. Designed as a true hub of excellence, it offers modern, highly secure infrastructures to support Naval Group's most complex projects.

The opening of this hub illustrates the commitment of ALTEN and Naval Group to work ever more closely together to meet the challenges of the naval industry and support its digital transformation. ALTEN and Naval Group aim to develop innovative solutions while guaranteeing the performance and confidentiality of operations.

"This inauguration marks a crucial stage in our partnership with Naval Group. Together, we aim to push back the boundaries of technological innovation in the naval sector, while ensuring the necessary ramp-up for the successful execution of projects, and the security and confidentiality of our operations," said Pierre Bonhomme, Executive Director at ALTEN Group.

Supporting Naval Group's growth strategy

The Rennes site will play a key role in strategic projects such as the development of high-tech naval systems and mechanical and industrialisation studies, systems and functional studies, while offering tailor-made training programmes to meet Naval Group's specific needs. « We are delighted that this collaboration between Naval Group and ALTEN has come to fruition. Setting up this engineering hub in Rennes, a breeding ground for talent and a centre of defence industry, will enable us to mobilise top-level expertise in key areas. » said Anne Quillon, Naval Group Purchasing Director.
